

Nai is a tribute to both, the origin of the Albariño and the contemporary women. The Galician poets and artists of the first half of the twentieth century refers to “nai” as a tribute to the working women who guaranteed the independence of the family and the Galician society. One of the most significant examples is the sculpture of “Naiciña” by Francisco Asorei. Those poets symbolized with “nai” their hallmark with their land, Galicia.

Terra de Asorei winery and vineyards are located in the Salnés Valley, within the DO Rias Baixas, one of the best growing regions for Albariño grapes. The vineyards are 20 to 80-years-old and are all within the winery’s property, located on the left bank of the Ria de Arousa (the largest saline estuary in Galicia, where the Ulla river meets the Atlantic ocean), with a privileged maritime climate.

Galicia is also home of Santiago de Compostela, where the legendary “Camino de Santiago” ends and pilgrims from all over the world gather to celebrate their journey.
